I am rather alarmed to learn that the city proposes raising Property Taxes and other user fees by 3.2%. Is the thinking that peoples incomes are going up to pay for this? The reality is many of us have either lost or are just hanging on to our jobs.

The responsible action would be to look at cutting back on services and potential waste e.g. is it really necessary for 2 garbage trucks to go around emptying the park trash cans on bank holidays? Small beer but this is a visible sign of waste to the uninitiated public - and there is likely more examples of more meaningful waste and city costs. Has this avenue been exhausted? If so time for tough decisions on cutting services.

Thank you

Nigel Codrington
